

Since the age of eight, I've been fortunate to have participated in several art related events and projects. In 2008, I invented a family game that won six national awards, but I'm really not a game inventor. I consider myself an artist, a designer of sorts, and visual story-teller. Simply put, I'm at my best when I'm creating. Listed below are some of my achievements and programs I've attended:
